MY EXPERIENCE

MY WORK

Karanja Ann is a current student at A kiraChix. A non-profit organization that aims to inspire and develop a successful force of women in technology who will change Africa's future. A kiraChix aims to be the leading women's network impacting technology in Africa. It's programs are developed to reach young women at different levels, those in Primary School, High School and University, those working in technology and those who wish to have a career in technology, making it an effectively wholesome program. Ann holds enjoys Graphic, UI and UX design. I also enjoy engaging with projects that require me to work outside my comfort and knowledge, am a fast learner and I like to contribute to the bottom line.
